

Language and Social Interaction, 7.5 credits

Språk och interaktionsanalys, 7.5 hp

Third-cycle education course

7FIKO13

Department of Culture and Society

Valid from: First half-year 2024

Approved by

Approved

Registration number

Contents

The course targets dialogic and interactional approaches to language, where human linguistic behavior is theorized as an aspect of multimodal communication. We look at language as a situated phenomenon.

Educational methods

Seminars

Examination

Active participation at seminars, course paper.

Grading

Two-grade scale

Course literature

Books:

Levinson, Steven & Nick Enfield (Eds.) 2006. Roots of Human Sociality: Culture, Cognition, and Interaction. London: Routledge.
Selected readings according to the course syllabus.

General information

The course will run during April and May, 2024. Course start April 9th.
Language: to be decided in consultation with course participants